SIGN OF THE TIMES — Montclair reserve Firefighter Steve Taylor hangs banner across Central Avenue telling of fireworks ban in area. Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Upland prohibit fireworks. Chino and Rancho Cucamonga allow "Safe 'n' Sane" fireworks in some areas. Fire departments are urging residents to attend Fourth of July displays at Chaffey College, Upland and Chino high schools, Prado Regional Park and Fairplex in Pomona.

Theater stops paying city's movie tax

By Lee Peterson

Armed with an appeals court judgment, Edwards Cinema in Rancho Cucamonga has stopped collecting and will refuse to pay the city's 10 percent admissions tax.

Justices of the Fourth District Court of Appeal reversed a lower court decision and found the six-year-old tax to be unconstitutional because it singles out a business protected by the First Amendment.

Since the theater opened in 1986, it has paid about $600,000 in admissions taxes. Monthly, the theater forwarded the tax payment to the city.

"We've been paying over $200,000 a year to the city which is an unbelievably high tax on a business," said James Edwards, Edwards Cinema chairman.

While the Fourth District justices denied the Edwards attorneys' request for an order to stop the city from collecting the tax, the justices stated in the opinion that Edwards could simply refuse to pay the tax and use the opinion as a legal defense should the city sue to compel payment of the tax.

The justices noted that their decision to strike down the Rancho Cucamonga tax mirrored their recent judgment in favor of another theater company's appeal of a Montclair admissions tax.

However, Montclair city officials last week decided, after being turned down for a hearing by the state Supreme Court, to petition the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn the Fourth District's opinion.

Montclair set to take case to Supreme Court

By Kathy Betts

Montclair officials are taking their 6 percent admissions tax to the United States Supreme Court.

"We simply feel right in our position and if we didn't pursue it to this conclusion, we would always wonder 'What if?' " Mayor Larry Rhinehart said.

"The voters in the city said 'OK. Go for it,' " Councilman Paul Eaton said, referring to residents who approved collection of the tax at the ballot box last November on all businesses that charge admission.

The City Council, in a 5-0 vote behind closed doors last week, agreed to petition the highest court to review the tax, which has brought into the city $340,853 to date, mostly from Montclair's four theaters.

The four theater companies filed a lawsuit against the city to stop collection of the tax soon after Montclair levied the tax in August 1987. City collection, however, did not cease until an appellate court ruling in March.

Then, a three-justice panel of the state District Court of Appeal reversed a lower court ruling, saying Montclair's admissions tax is unconstitutional because 90 percent of it is borne by the city's movie theaters.

On May 24, the state Supreme Court denied the city's request for a review of the tax without explanation. The denial let stand the appellate court ruling that the tax is unconstitutional.

Barry London, who is representing Montclair's four theaters that are fighting the tax, has pledged to fight any request for a petition of the case.

Students redo covers to ensure books get looks

By Suzanne Sproul

Covers can make a big difference for the success of a book.

If the illustration is pleasing, it can help attract readers. If it isn't, a book can collect dust on the shelf.

Books in the Central School library in Rancho Cucamonga don't have that problem. Librarians Elaine Friesen and Marilyn Manning initiated an "ugly book" program to try and revamp some of the school's aging works.

"The 'ugly book' contest came out of our efforts to try and refurbish the library. The school bought new books but then those made the older ones look shabby," Friesen said.

So the help of students was enlisted. About 500 participated in the program that involved having the children select a book, read it, design a new cover for it and complete the work.

Then the books were plastic-coated or laminated.

"If the book cover was frayed or the spine broken we chose those books for the project. By putting a new cover on the books, the students probably added another three years to the books' lives and saved the school money.

"Many teachers and students decided to do this as a classroom project, while others decided to treat it as a book report. Some of the books contain a student summary of the story on the book jacket," Friesen said.

Sixth grader Joel Wade said he chose "Great Big Air Book" to work on because he remembered reading it when he was younger.

"I thought of one of those books when I found out about the project and wanted to make this look nicer," he said while holding up his work.

First grader Jamie Bonds chose "Song of the Swallows" and did her work during class.

Sixth grader Amy Sutton chose "Island of the Blue Dolphins" and illustrated the book cover, appropriately enough, with a small island and palm tree next to a blue wave and a dolphin swimming in it. "The design made sense," she said with a smile.

Principal Dave Sodon said, "If you could have seen this place a year ago you'd be shocked over the change. The library used to be a place where children simply checked a book in or out. Now it's a place where students and teachers have fun."

R.C. predicts growth as it takes on a pair of budgets

By Lee Peterson

For the first time, Rancho Cucamonga has tackled financial planning for two years in the future, rather than the customary one-year budget.

Reflecting the growth in town, the work force at City Hall will increase by 22 in the 1989-90 fiscal year and by another 15 the next fiscal year under the proposed budget.

Last year the city grew by 56 employees to 240 full-time city employees, the highest number of employees since the city incorporated in 1977.

In this first effort to write a two-year budget, the city manager has predicted steady growth in general fund revenues of 12 percent and 10 percent over the next two years respectively.

A flurry of park construction will push total expenditures during the next fiscal year to more than $60 million for general fund and capital improvements.

Expected income for 89-90 will be about $52 million, according to the proposed budget. The difference is made up with savings carry-over in park development funds.

The city's redevelopment budget, funded with property tax increment diverted to redevelopment agency coffers, is planned to be nearly $48 million in 89-90, and $46.2 million the following year.

The city's population grew

Montclair looks beyond mall to fund its future

By Kathy Betts

Montclair officials are cautiously optimistic about the $20 million balanced budget they are proposing for the 1989-90 fiscal year.

Current automobile dealerships, individual businesses and the Montclair Plaza are not enough to sustain a growing population and the growing price tag of city services and environmental safeguards, they say.

City Administrator Michael Milhiser said it's only a matter of time until another large regional shopping center also opens in the area and challenges the city's main sales-tax generator on Central Avenue.

Therefore, aggressive marketing strategies aimed at attracting more businesses — and their sales tax dollars — to the city are proposed in the 1989-90 budgets for the city and its redevelopment agency.

Milhiser calls a $12 million, five-year Capital Improvement Plan, which is incorporated into the city budget, "a major milestone" for Montclair, because it outlines needed future projects, how much they cost and the funding available to pay for them.

Construction of freeway on- and off-ramps at Monte Vista Avenue near the plaza (nearly $4 million to date), the widening of Palo Verde Street ($546,000) and acquisition of park land in the southeast Montclair area ($421,000) are completed in the plan's first year.

Other projects funded in 1989-90 include the city's part of a countywide 800 megahertz emergency radio system (some $1 million to date) and an expansion of the fire station to accommodate an Emergency Operations Center for the system ($250,000).

Although the plan stretches from 1989 to 1994, it must be incorporated into each annual budget to allow for revisions as needed, Milhiser said.

Three new employees, compared with five new positions last year, are proposed in this year's city budget. These are a police officer, a personnel aide for redevelopment and a maintenence worker in public works.

Money collected from the city's business license fee and admissions tax, which voters unanimously approved in the November 1988 general election, were to pay for the salaries of the five positions added last year.

However, the 6 percent admissions tax that has brought in some $300,000 annually to city coffers is being contested by four Montclair theaters.

A lower court originally had ruled in Montclair's favor, yet a district appellate court panel in March deemed the tax unconstitutional because 90 percent of it was borne by the theaters.

Recently the state Supreme Court denied review of the case, letting stand an appellate court's ruling that the tax is unconstitutional. Montclair City Council members were expected to decide in closed session June 19 whether they will petition the U.S. Supreme Court to review the tax case.

Yet, even if the unconstitutional ruling on the admissions tax remains, Milhiser said increased revenues from the city's uncontested business license fees will pay for last year's new positions and future projects .

Other concerns addressed in next year's proposed budget are the cramped conditions at Montclair City Hall and its neighboring police station.

However, Milhiser said funding for a new police facility that would allow City Hall to spread out into the current police headquarters is at least five years down the line.

Rancho Cucamonga Assistant City Attorney Andrew Arczynski said he will discuss with the City Council fighting the appellate court decision.

If they do decide to fight, they will first petition for a rehearing with the Fourth District, and failing that would approach the state Supreme Court.

The basic issues of the Montclair and Rancho Cucamonga admissions tax are the same, but the cases differ on the facts, Arczynski said.

The Fourth District justices, Arczynski said, based their opinion upon language extracted out of context from precedent-setting cases in which taxes on First Amendment activities were abolished.

Arczynski said the court is using flawed logic to find in favor of Edwards. The city's tax, enacted three years before Edwards opened, does not single out First Amendment activities and also applies to a local roller rink and two nightclubs.

The court suggested that the city raise business license taxes across the board for all businesses if they need the revenues.

"Any tax which actually affects only a small group of businesses engaged in First Amendment activities may have a chilling effect on such activities because of the implicit threat that the tax may be raised ...," the opinion reads.

Lawrence Davidson, one of the Edwards attorneys, said there are claims pending in regards to the taxes already paid to the city. The company faces a lengthy process in trying to get the money returned, he said.

After that, the theater and the city will have to find some way to pay back the tax to moviegoers.

Meanwhile, there is no plan to change the actual price of the ticket and adult prices remain at $5.50.

Edwards has plans to build another movie theater in the Terra Vista Town Center, at the northeast corner of Haven Avenue and Foothill Boulevard, across the street from its existing theater.

However, Rhinehart said last week he was not aware of any action on London's part at this point.

London recently defended Rancho Cucamonga's only theater, Edwards Cinema, in the same appellate court that heard his arguments against Montclair's tax in March.

This time, London asked the appellate court justices to stop collection of Rancho Cucamonga's 10 percent admissions tax, saying it was similar to Montclair's currently unconstitutional tax, though Edwards Cinema was built after the tax was enacted in Rancho Cucamonga.

That panel has until early August to relinquish a decision in that case.

Montclair continues to contend that its tax is necessary to pay for city services such as street sweeping and police and fire protection.

City Manager Jack Lam has proposed that a cost allocation study, similar to ones conducted recently by Ontario and Upland, be completed by January 1990.

David Pickens shows the wallet he lost as he put air in his tire.

Honesty is its own reward for Chinoan

By Jessica Ellman

David Pickens had no idea a stranger, Nestor Guzman, would be worth $1,000.

Pickens, a Chino resident, had worked 21 days straight so he would have enough money for a new truck.

But when he stopped to get gas that Saturday on his way to make a down payment on the truck, he also lost his wallet — including $540 in cash and a $500 paycheck.

As soon as he realized he had left the wallet on his hood, Pickens returned to the gas station, but the wallet was not there.

"I figured if anyone saw that much cash they would take it. And, because my driver's license was in there they could have forged my name," said the 26-year-old.

"I was just praying someone honest found it and they did." Later that evening Pickens got a phone call.

"Dave, how are you doing," a man's voice said through the receiver.

"I said, 'OK,' and he said, 'How are you really doing,' and I said, 'Not so good, I lost my wallet,' " Pickens recalled.

Then the stranger told Pickens "this may be your lucky day."

And it was.

Guzman had found Pickens' wallet, cash and all.

The 41-year-old Chino resident said when he found the wallet he just put himself in Pickens' position.

"I thought how desperate he must be. This poor guy should be pulling his hair out.

"It would be pretty scary to lose everything you had worked for," Guzman said.

Guzman said he wouldn't accept a reward from Pickens because he knows how hard it is to earn extra money.

"I couldn't take money. I'm honest not because of getting money, that's my nature," Guzman said. "He worked for it."

New electric rail car debuts amid fanfare

By J. Rezendes-Herrick

LONG BEACH — Engineer Mike Jenkins gave his approval to "The City of Long Beach," the first electric rail car in Los Angeles County in 25 years.

"It's beautiful," said Jenkins, 49, of Paramount, who ran one of the old Red Cars in 1960-61 before the closing of the Pacific Electric line. "I wish we had this 20 years ago. They wouldn't have taken us down."

Jenkins, clad in his old Pacific Electric uniform and carrying the trademark metal, black-painted control box, was one af about 500 people attending unveiling ceremonies Thursday morning at the Southern California Rapid Transit District Maintenance Yard. "We're building for the future, for the 21st century," said Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley. "You're going to see a reduction in traffic congestion and we will see people moved efficiently from their homes to their work places and places of recreation."

The joint RTD-Los Angeles County Transportation Commission project eventually will put 54 rail cars on three separate routes.

The rail cars are built by Nippon Sharyo of Japan and cost $1.1 million each.

Teens fail to raise a ruckus

By Kathy Betts

A controversial "teen night" that re-surfaced last week at an Upland dance club seems to have come and gone without a hitch.

"It must have went very well because we had no calls," said Upland Police Sgt. Dan Emerson of the first, once-a-week teen night for 13- to 17-year-olds at Fashions Night Club June 20.

Though a city ordinance requires that one off-duty police officer or security guard be assigned for each 100 people gathered, Emerson said he did not know how many officers were assigned to the event.

Just as before, no alcohol was available for teen night, yet Mayor Robert Nolan contends that teen-agers previously left the club to drink on nearby streets and then returned.

Fashions, previously called the 7th Street Dance Club, was established as a teen club in October 1984, said Upland Senior Planner John Atwater.

Club owners decided to convert 7th Street Dance Club to Fashions, an adult night club at 1276 W. Seventh St. near Mountain Avenue, because they thought they could make more money by drawing a bigger crowd and serving alcoholic beverages, Atwater said.

Nolan recently followed planning commissioners Tom Thomas and Dick Williams in protesting the return of the under-age gatherings at the adult dance club.

Burbank-based KROQ radio station supplied disc jockey "Lewis" to host the event, according to a recording at the club. Lance Powell, one of the club's owners, could not be reached for comment.

Nolan said five years ago the council turned down the planning commission's proposal to allow teen nights at Fashions because the proposed age span (13-21) was considered too broad.

ADDED COVERAGE

All advertising appearing in Tuesday editions of The Daily Report will also publish in the weekly publications: Montclair Tribune, Rancho Cucamonga Times and Upland News at a rate of 19¢ per line.

ADJUSTMENTS

We make every effort to avoid errors in advertisements. For your protection check your ads upon first publication. The Daily Report will be responsible for only one incorrect insertion of an ad. The Daily Report is not responsible for typographical errors or omissions of copy.

HOW TO HAVE A SUCCESSFUL GARAGE SALE IN 9 EASY STEPS:

1. Make a date. Set a time of day. Have your Garage Sale run for at least two days. Check weather reports. Make sure that there're no other events happening on the days you chose.

2. Select the items you want to sell and decide on their prices. Make sure they look their best and are correctly tagged. After you have them assembled, check again in the attic, closets, basement for items you haven't used in over a year. Don't be choosy...what you may consider unworthy of the garbage dump might be someone else's treasure.

3. Write your ad. Describe big ticket items and include important details: address, date, time and even offer directions.

4. Place your ad in the Classified section of the Newspaper at least a few days before the sale is set to take place.

5. Place signs in your area. Use arrows to guide prospective customers to your home. Put signs up by busy streets and intersections for maximum visibility. Note: some areas may have laws limiting placement of these signs. Check with the planning department in your community to get proper information.

6. Price all items clearly...and reasonably. Use bright markers or colored stickers. Remember that Garage Sales are where people look for bargains and where you're looking to clear out your garage. Whatever's not sold will have to go back to you...so price it low and sell it fast.

7. Display items as pleasingly as possible. Create a traffic flow with space for aisles for customers to maneuver through the area without walking into things or knocking them over.

8. Set up a 'cashier's' area and have one person tend it at all times (make sure someone's available to 'spell' them throughout the sale). Place it where you have the best view of the merchandise.

9. Ask friends and neighbors if they'd like to partake in the sale. The more merchandise, the more bargains to be found...and likely the more interest in the event. Mention this in your ad as well as on signs: Block Sale or Four Family Garage Sale.

COLONIAL TABLE AND BENCH

The trestle table and benches pictured here were designed for a breakfast nook, but may also be used to convert other places in your home into cozy corners. We gave these pieces a natural finish, but you may also antique them in a dark, distressed finish or paint them to match your decor. Simply trace the pattern onto wood, saw out the parts and assemble. The legs should be available at home centers.
